TUNED IN: Hayley Westenra (pictured) is among a host of British artists who have teamed up with music charity Youth Music, the National Gallery and photographer Rankin to support the launch of Youth Music Week 2007. From 24 October, a day of workshops, masterclasses and live showcases will kick-start 'the largest series of music events ever put on for young people in England and Wales'. Founded in 1999, Youth Music is one of the leading supporters of extracurricular music-making in the UK. Photo: © Rankin
